The Honda Civic is definately the hatchback you buy if you're after practicality and reliability. Launched in 2012 the Civic is a rival to the likes of the Ford Focus, Volkswagen Golf and Vauxhall Astra. Some people need little more than the knowledge that a car will be totally reliable between services, not cost a packet to run, and be comfortable and quiet on the move. These people should buy a Honda Civic.

This particular example is in simply stunning condition both inside and out. Registered on the 30th of December 2014 it is practically a 2015 car and has had only 1 very particular owner since new. Upon inspection it will become clear that they clearly cherished this car and maintained it to the highest of standards taking it to Honda for all of its 5 services - the last being at 19700 miles.

This is just one of those cars that ticks every box, if you can try not to miss this one.
