The Grandland X is a compact crossover SUV produced by the German automaker Opel, which is a subsidiary of the French automotive group PSA Group (now part of Stellantis after a merger with Fiat Chrysler Automobiles). It was first introduced in 2017 and continued into the 2019 model year. The Grandland X is built on the same platform as the Peugeot 3008 and the Citroën C5 Aircross, as part of the collaboration between Opel and PSA Group. Here are some key features and specifications of the 2019 Opel Grandland X:

Exterior Design: The Grandland X features a modern and dynamic design, with sculpted lines and a prominent grille that's characteristic of Opel's design language. It has a sleek and sporty appearance, typical of crossover SUVs in its segment.

Interior Comfort: Inside, the Grandland X offers a spacious and comfortable cabin with seating for five passengers. The interior design emphasizes ergonomics and functionality, with high-quality materials used throughout the cabin. It also comes equipped with various tech features and connectivity options.

Powertrain Options: The 2019 Grandland X is available with a range of petrol and diesel engines, depending on the market. These engines are designed to offer a balance of performance and fuel efficiency, catering to different driving preferences and requirements.

Safety Features: Safety is a priority in the Grandland X, with a suite of advanced safety features and driver assistance systems available. This includes features such as lane departure warning, forward collision alert, automatic emergency braking, adaptive cruise control, and more, aimed at enhancing driver confidence and reducing the risk of accidents.

Infotainment System: The Grandland X is equipped with Opel's latest infotainment system, which includes features such as touchscreen displays, smartphone integration
